FAMILY FIELD TRIP!

Saturday, March 30, 2019

Imagine a child from 1919 meets a child from 2019. Though their lives are very different, they discover joy and meaning in music in the very same ways. This program will include Dvořák's "New World Symphony", Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue" and the music of Florence Price.

Here are the details:

- ♪ This field trip is for families—all children must be accompanied by at least one parent.
- ♪ Tickets are $10 per person (children and adults).
- ♪ We will meet at the Armstrong School parking lot and leave on a school bus at 9 a.m.
- ♪ We will arrive at Symphony Center on Michigan Avenue in down Chicago in time for child friendly preconcert activities.
- ♪ The performance begins at 11 a.m. and will last an hour.
- ♪ We expect to be back at Armstrong at 1 p.m.
- ♪ The concert is recommended for 5-year olds and above but we can take siblings who are at least 3 years old. Siblings older than 6th grade are also invited to join their family.
- ♪ Because tickets had to be reserved months ago, we are limited to only 50 seats, so we will be reserving space on a first come, first served basis.
